"As of 2017, the flash proxy project is deprecated. It was deployed in Tor Browser between 2013 and 2016, but has since been superseded by newer and more effective pluggable transports. If you want to help support a newer circumvention system designed along the same principles as flash proxy, please see Snowflake (https://trac.torproject.org/projects/tor/wiki/doc/Snowflake)."

#4 - 08/19/2018 10:21 AM - Anonymous
- Subject changed from Add Flashproxy support to Consider adding Snowflake support (Tor pluggable transport)
- Type of work changed from Code to Research

I'm repurposing this ticket. We should research how useful this might be.

Update:

- Snowflake is in Tor Browser alpha
- The upstream ticket is tagged "Sponsor28-must" so there's a chance this gets into Tor Browser stable at some point.
